

Noah's Ark News

Week ending 2 October 2020

Making Connections

At Noah's Ark, we like to make connections between things that the children are doing at home and those they do in Pre-school. We love hearing the children's take on the world. An interesting discussion in the Orange Room this morning considered what the Mummies might be doing whilst we are at Pre-school. We ask for parental input into the Learning Diaries and when your child is one of our Focus Children for the week.

We also have Family Books in each room. These are folders in which we display pictures of children and staff with their families and pets. The children love looking at them and seeing who they can recognise.

It can spark interesting conversations when they see pictures of their own families and share with us who is in the picture.

To help us update the books for this year please could you send a photo of your child with members of their family, friends, pets or anything else that they find interesting and might like to share. You can send more than one photo if you wish and you can update photos that were sent in last year as long as you are happy for them to be shared within Pre-school.

The easiest is to email them. We look forward to seeing what you send in.

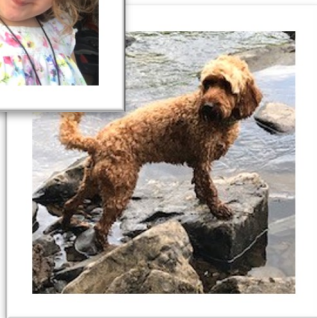

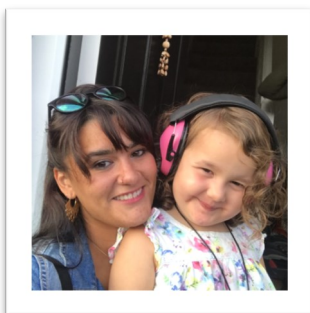

Recruiting

We are looking to fill two posts at Noah's Ark. For more information about the positions of Early Years Practitioner with Key Person Responsibilities or SEN 1:1 Support, please see our website or contact the office.
